

Infections Consultant

This folder provides you with information about the infections consultant. Please be aware that your personal situation may differ from that described in the folder.

At our Internal Medicine out-patients' clinic, Mr M. van den Berge and Ms A. Stegeman (both internist and hiv specialist) work together with infections consultants S. Baas and L. Hage. Mr van den Berge and Ms Stegeman will do their best to inform you about your disease and all associated treatment possibilities. The infections consultant, who is usually informed about every visit, also holds nursing consultation hours within Adrz.

Tasks infections consultant

The infections consultants hold nursing consultation hours in which the following matters can be discussed:

- information about the disease, its course and possible treatments
- information about medicines and side effects
- instructions about contagiousness, where necessary also for your partner, family and people you come into contact with
- information about needle stick injuries
- referrals to other healthcare institutions
- monitoring studies and/or research

Family members and friends who have questions or are seeking advice, too, may contact the infections consultant. However, they will not be provided with information about the patient.

Questions and contact information

It is not possible to provide all the information you may need in this leaflet. Should you have any remaining questions after having read this folder, please contact the Infections Consultant, available Wednesday and Thursday via 0031 113 234 495. Or send an e-mail to:
